There were a few surprises in yesterday's primary election and one of the surprises was the number of votes cast. Another was the strength of the Socialists.

Mayor A. G. Fell and Dr. H. M. Rowe were nominated for the office of mayor, Mayor Fell leading his opponents by a large majority. The total vote for Fell was 2,679, while Dr. Rowe polled 1,420 votes. Wagner, the Socialist was third with 1,067 votes.

In the race for the nomination for the commissioner's office Chris Flygare and A. E. Weatherby were successful in securing the places. The contest was rather close, Flygare getting 1,343 votes to 1,511 polled by Weatherby. Carr came third, but A. H. Martin, Socialist, was ahead of both Oscar Madsen and E. T. Hulanish.

From the result of the primary vote for municipal judge, it is not difficult to forecast the final result. Judge W. H. Reeder outdistanced his Socialist competitor. The judge received 3,268 votes, while Holmgren received 1,506 votes.

born in 1868 in Ontario, Canada. He received his education in the schools of Stratford, Ontario, and the college in Toronto. After being graduated from college, he came west and practiced as a veterinarian in Clinton and Marion, Ohio, for 10 years. In 1898 he passed the civil service examinations for inspector in the bureau of animal industry and was placed in charge of the inspection work in the Swift packing plant.

He came to Ogden in 1900 and was associated with Col. George Hickox in organizing federal inspection and

When interviewed this morning, the successful candidates had but little to say. All expressed thanks to their supporters and all said they were confident of success in the final election.

Short biographies of the candidates follow:

Mayor A. G. Fell.
A. G. Fell, candidate for the office of mayor, was born in Prescott, Ontario, near Montreal, in 1846. Before he was of age, he came west and became engaged in railroad work. From the position of an operator in Carlin, he gradually won promotion until he became division superintendent of the Central Pacific. He was actively associated with the building of the last gap of the railroad that connected the Union Pacific and Central Pacific at Promontory. Since leaving railroad work years ago to establish a business for himself, he has resided in Ogden where his business interests are centered. Two years ago he was elected mayor. When interviewed this morning Mayor Fell stated that he was highly pleased with the result of the primary election. "I feel confident that the final election will result favorably to myself," he said. "There are many who ask what the present administration has done, but if those dissatisfied persons would look into the matter closely and compare records, the present administration would appear in a most favorable light."

Dr. H. M. Rowe.

quarantine in this district. He continued in that work until 1906 when he resigned to look after his range interests. Dr. Rowe was actively engaged in the building up of the Four State Fair and arranging for the large exhibits of livestock. In 1911 he became a director of the Ogden State bank and in 1912 and 1913 was unanimously elected president of the Western club, filling the duties of the office without compensation. "Considering the fact that I was comparatively unknown to many people of Ogden and the fact that I had no organization working before the primary election I am more than pleased with the result," said Dr. Rowe today. "From now on I shall be in active control of my campaign and am optimistic of results in the final election."

Chris Flygare.
Chris Flygare, candidate for the office of four-year commissioner is celebrating the 47th anniversary of his birth today. He was born in Ogden in 1866 and received his education in the public schools of the city.

After his school days, he was employed in the old Z. C. M. I. for 27 years. When the institution was discontinued seven years ago, he entered the hardware field for himself and is engaged in that business at present. Mr. Flygare has had several years of political experience. He served four terms in the city council under Mayors Matt Browning, A. L. Brewer, E. M. Conroy and William Glasmann. Mr. Flygare would make no statement this morning, saying that he would have one ready within a short time.
